Product Description

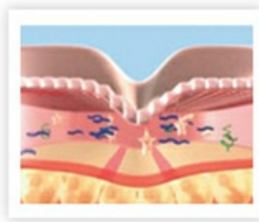

150mg 5ml Stimulates Collagen Production PLLA Powder injection dermal fillers dermal filler dermal fillers injections are a natural way to restore lost facial collagen. It contains poly-L-lactic acid, or PLLA, a substance that belongs to the alpha-hydroxy acid group. Poly-L-lactic acid is a synthetic polymer, and has been used for years in absorbable surgical sutures or stitches. dermal fillers functions as a facial filler either for cosmetic reasons or for medical purposes to restore and correct the signs of facial loss in patients including those diagnosed with HIV. Poly-L-lactic acid is a biocompatible and biodegradable polymer. You can buy dermal fillers in the form of dermal fillers 150mg strength vials, which must be reconstituted before use by adding 5ml of sterile water for the injection, forming a sterile non-pyrogenic suspension.

How dermal fillers Works:

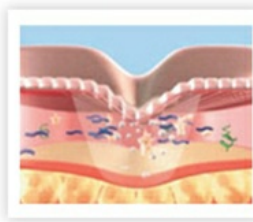

The micro-particles of Poly-L-lactic acid in dermal fillers is mixed with sterile water and then injected. It is then deposited under the skin, after which dermal fillers breaks down and stimulates collagen production. The drug works by raising the volume of the depressed areas in the face gradually over a period of time. After 2 or 3 treatments that are separated by intervals of 4 or 6 weeks, patients will notice a natural and youthful difference in their skin. The effects of dermal fillers can last for as long as 2 years.

Wrinkle before treatment

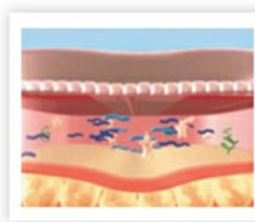

The injected volume immediately fills out the wrinkles and volume defects

Within a few days, the water in Sculptra is absorbed by the body with a slight increase in wrinkle depth

The 2nd phase consists of a natural, soft build-up of the connective tissue, smoothing out wrinkles and contour defects

After approximately 6 weeks clear improvement can be seen. Larger volume defects may involve further Treatment

There are a few precautions that need to be kept in mind when you buy dermal fillers. These are:

- * There is a risk of inflammatory reactions on the injected site if a patient undergoes any treatment that requires active dermal response after administering dermal fillers. Examples of such treatment would include laser treatment and chemical peeling.
- * The safety and efficacy of dermal fillers has not been evaluated if it is given in large amounts in sites where signs of lipoatrophy are not present, or in sites where other dermal fillers were injected.
- * The safety and efficacy of Scuptra has not been evaluated for use in the lips. Do not inject dermal fillers into the red area, i.e. the vermilion of the lip.
- * dermal fillers is to be injected into the subcutaneous layer or the deep dermis. If it is injected superficially, it may result in side effects like papules and nodules.
- * Papules and nodules may be formed if the dermal fillers is injected in the peri-orbital area.
- * dermal fillers should not be mixed with other dermal fillers and injected into the face.
- * dermal fillers should only be administered by a medically trained professional to correct lipoatrophy in HIV patients after the professional is fully familiar with the patient's history, the product, and the entire package insert.
